Nariyal Paudha Vitran Yojana (State Scheme)

A Bihar state scheme that gives coconut plants at a subsidised rate so that people can grow coconut trees near their homes, gardens and fields.

What you may get

Each coconut plant costs Rs 115 (Rs 100 for raising it and Rs 15 for transport to the district). The state pays 75% of this, which is Rs 86.25 per plant, and you pay the rest. You can get at least 5 and at most 712 plants (178 per hectare).

Who it is for

Farmers and urban residents of Bihar who have their own land, yard, kitchen garden or field and want to plant coconut.

Main conditions

- You must want to plant coconut on your own land, yard, kitchen garden or field near your home.
- People living in urban areas can also apply.
- A land revenue receipt is compulsory. If your name is not clearly shown on it, attach a family tree (vanshavali) with it.
- One person can get between 5 and 712 plants at the subsidised rate.
- The scheme runs in all 38 districts of Bihar.

Documents

- Land revenue receipt or proof of land ownership
- Family tree (vanshavali), if your name is not clearly on the receipt

How to apply

1. Open the coconut plant scheme form on the Directorate of Horticulture portal and read the main points.
2. Tick the box agreeing to the terms and continue to the online form.
3. Fill in your details and upload the land receipt and other papers.
4. After your farmer share is received, the Coconut Development Board supplies the plants through the Assistant Director Horticulture of your district.
