Delhi Arogya Kosh

Delhi Arogya Kosh is a registered society of the Delhi government that gives money for the treatment of needy patients in government hospitals.

What you may get

Financial help for treatment of any illness or disease in a government hospital, paid by cheque to the hospital. The leaflet carries no year, so ask the Patient Welfare Cell for the present ceiling per patient.

Who it is for

Patients of Delhi who hold a National Food Security card and need treatment in a government hospital.

Main conditions

- The patient holds a National Food Security card, which also serves as income proof
- The patient has lived in Delhi for a set number of years before the application date, shown by a domicile certificate, ration card, voter ID, driving licence, passport or Aadhaar
- Treatment is in a hospital run by the Delhi government, the central government (including AIIMS), a local body or a state autonomous institute

Documents

- Copy of the National Food Security card
- Estimate certificate from the treating doctor, certified by the Medical Superintendent of the hospital
- Two photographs of the patient attested by the treating doctor
- Photocopies of the treatment records
- For a minor patient: birth certificate and domicile proof of one parent

How to apply

1. Fill in the application form yourself, or have a representative fill it for the patient.
2. Submit it in person with the documents at the Patient Welfare Cell, Directorate of Health Services, F-17 Karkardooma, Delhi 110032 (6th floor, room 1; phone 011-22306851).
3. The file goes to the Director Health Services, the Finance Department, the Health Secretary and the DAK Chairman for approval. The sanctioned amount is sent by cheque to the hospital and the applicant is told by letter.
