Old Age Samman Allowance Scheme

A monthly allowance from the Haryana government for residents aged 60 or more who have low income. New cases are picked up from Parivar Pehchan Patra data, so most people do not need to fill a form.

What you may get

Rs 3,200 every month (rate in force from 1 November 2025), paid straight into the bank account of the beneficiary through PFMS. The allowance continues for life as long as the person stays eligible.

Who it is for

Senior citizens of Haryana aged 60 years or above whose own and spouse's income is low.

Main conditions

- Age must be 60 years or more.
- The person must be a domicile and resident of Haryana.
- Income of the person and the spouse from all sources together must not be more than Rs 3,00,000 a year.
- People who already get a pension from a government, local or statutory body, or a body mostly funded by the government, are not covered. Provident fund and annuity income also count as pension.

Documents

- Parivar Pehchan Patra (Family ID) number, with age, income, residence and bank details verified in the family database

How to apply

1. Make sure your family has a Parivar Pehchan Patra and that your age, income and bank details in it are correct and verified.
2. Every month the Parivar Pehchan Authority sends the list of people who have become eligible to the department. The department calls this a pro-active service, so no separate application is usually needed.
3. The District Social Welfare Officer's office or another government official will contact you to take your consent.
4. After consent, the allowance is sanctioned online and you are given a pension ID. Payment then starts in your bank account.
