Training for Self Employment of Women in Need of Care and Protection

A one-year training course in weaving, tailoring, knitting and embroidery for destitute and vulnerable women in Meghalaya, with a monthly stipend and a start-up grant after the course.

What you may get

Selected women get one year of practical and theory training at the centres in Shillong, Tura and Jowai. The page lists a monthly stipend of Rs 1,500. After training, a grant of Rs 7,000, Rs 6,000 or Rs 5,000 is sanctioned by grade, to help the woman start earning.

Who it is for

Destitute girls, orphans, widows, single mothers and women in distress in Meghalaya who want to learn a trade and earn on their own.

Main conditions

- The centre gives preference to orphans, single parents, deserted wives and widows, poor and large families, and destitute women.
- Applicants may also be recommended by a voluntary organisation.
- A selection committee picks the trainees, and the Director of Social Welfare approves the stipend.

Documents

- Certificate from the Secretary or President of a registered voluntary social organisation, or the village headman, stating the applicant's helplessness and destitution
- Attested copies of school certificates

How to apply

1. Collect the prescribed application form from the office of the Superintendent of the training centre.
2. Fill it in and attach the supporting certificates.
3. Submit it to the Superintendent by the date fixed in the advertisement.
