Mukhyamantri Jankalyan (Shiksha Protsahan) Yojana

Madhya Pradesh pays the course fee for children of registered unorganised workers who get into engineering, medical, law and other higher courses.

What you may get

The state bears the course fee. In government engineering colleges the whole fee is paid; in private engineering colleges it is up to Rs 1.5 lakh or the actual fee, whichever is less. Fees are also paid for NEET-based MBBS and BDS, law courses at NLUs and Delhi University, graduation in central institutions, degrees and diplomas in state government and aided colleges, and polytechnic and ITI courses. Money goes to the student's Aadhaar-linked account in private institutes and to the institute's account in government ones.

Who it is for

Children of parents registered as unorganised workers with the Madhya Pradesh Labour Department, who are studying in the covered higher education courses.

Main conditions

- A parent of the student must be registered as an unorganised worker with the Madhya Pradesh Labour Department.
- For engineering, the student must have a JEE Main rank within 1,50,000.
- For MBBS or BDS, admission must be through NEET. Doctors trained in a government medical college sign a bond of Rs 10 lakh for 2 years of rural service; in a private college it is Rs 25 lakh and 5 years.
- For law, admission to an NLU or Delhi University after class 12 must be through CLAT or the institute's own test.

Documents

- Aadhaar card
- Mark sheet of the qualifying exam
- Sambal card

How to apply

1. Fill in the application online on the scheme's portal.
2. The nodal officer of your institute checks the application and documents. For private institutes in a district this is the nodal officer of the lead government college, and for institutes outside Madhya Pradesh it is the technical education nodal officer.
3. The approving officer then approves the verified application, and the technical, medical or higher education department makes the payment.
4. For queries, email mmjkyhelpline.dte@mp.gov.in or call 0755-2660063.
