Nagaland Government Ex-Gratia Scheme for Students Studying Outside Nagaland (NGESSO)

Nagaland pays Rs 5 lakh to the nominee of a registered Scheduled Tribe student who dies while studying in a recognised institution outside the state.

What you may get

A one-time ex-gratia of Rs 5,00,000 goes to the nominee of a registered student who dies outside Nagaland while studying. Only death cases are covered.

Who it is for

Scheduled Tribe or indigenous students of Nagaland who study a regular course of at least one year in a recognised institution outside Nagaland but within India.

Main conditions

- The student must be a recognised Scheduled Tribe or an indigenous inhabitant of Nagaland.
- The student must be admitted to a regular course of at least one year in a recognised institution outside Nagaland but within India, from primary level up to post-doctoral level.
- The student must be registered with the Directorate of Higher Education and must name a nominee at registration.
- Registration has to be renewed every academic year.
- Students who live in Nagaland and study by correspondence or distance education outside the state are not covered.
- The nominee must claim within two months of the death, with the police certificate, the institution's certificate and the registration number.

Documents

- One recent passport size photo of the student
- One recent passport size photo of the nominee
- Photocopy of the student's identity card
- Photocopy of the student's admission receipt
- Photocopy of the ST and Indigenous certificate of the student
- Specimen signature of the nominee
- Photocopy of the front page of the nominee's bank passbook

How to apply

1. Download the NGESSO registration form, fresh or renewal, from the Directorate of Higher Education website.
2. Fill in the form, name a nominee and attach the listed documents.
3. Send or hand the form to the NGESSO Section of the Directorate of Higher Education in Kohima (PIN 797001) before the date set for registration.
4. Renew the registration every academic year. After the registration number is issued, it appears in the list on the website.
