Kanyashree Prakalpa

Kanyashree Prakalpa is a West Bengal scheme that pays a yearly amount to unmarried girls aged 13 to 18 who stay in education, and a one-time grant after they turn 18.

What you may get

Rs 1,000 every year for each unmarried girl aged 13 to 18 who studies in Class VIII or above, and a one-time grant of Rs 25,000 after she turns 18 if she was studying or in a training course and is still unmarried. The money goes to the girl's own bank account.

Who it is for

Unmarried girls aged 13 to 18 in West Bengal who study in Class VIII to XII, or in a recognised vocational or technical course, in families from economically weaker sections.

Main conditions

- The girl must be unmarried and aged between 13 and 18 for the yearly amount.
- She must be enrolled in Class VIII to XII in a government-recognised regular or open school, or in a vocational or technical training course.
- For the one-time grant of Rs 25,000, she must have turned 18, been engaged in study or an occupational course, and be unmarried.

How to apply

1. Registration is done once. Ask for the fresh K1 form at your school or college, as long as the institution is registered on the Kanyashree portal.
2. Meet the head of your institute for details and to submit the form.
3. For payment problems, first speak to the nodal teacher at your school, then the Data Manager at the Block Development Officer's office (rural) or the Sub-Divisional Officer's office (municipal area), and then the Kanyashree and Rupashree Section at the District Magistrate's office.
4. To register a complaint, use the grievance page on the Kanyashree portal wbkanyashree.gov.in with your application ID and year.
